

Land surface temperature difference during the frigid winter period of January 1-24, 2006 in Europe and Asia compared to data from the average for the period from 2001-2005. During this same period the eastern United States was exceptionally warm while Alaska, western Australia, and southern Africa were unusually cold. (Data from the MODIS instrument on the Terra satellite.)

